

Prof Dr Kishore Marathe

Excerpts

Kishore Marathe was a faculty member of Pune University from 1963 to 1967 and then joined the Ph.D. program at the University of Rochester as a Sybron-India Foundation Fellow. He has held visiting positions in Germany, Italy, India and Japan.

Bio

Kishore Marathe was a faculty member of Pune University from 1963 to 1967 and then joined the Ph.D. program at the University of Rochester as a Sybron-India Foundation Fellow. Marathe worked at St. John Fisher College, Rochester and SUNY Buffalo before joining Brooklyn College in 1973. He has held visiting positions in Germany, Italy, India and Japan. He will be a research fellow at the Max Planck Society from June to November 2007.

Education:

Ph.D., University of Rochester - 1971 (Mathematics, General)

M.S., Pune University - 1963 (Applied Mathematics)

Areas of Expertise:

Differential geometry and theoretical physics, with special interest in gauge field theories and gravity.